CANADA-PHILIPPINES TRACK 1.5 DIALOGUE:

March 11-13, 2026 | Manila, Philippines

Building Economic Security through Strengthened Canada-Philippines Partnership

Canada-Philippines relations are evolving in a region that is increasingly defined by strategic competition, rapid digital transformation, and growing security risks. In this environment, economic security has become a central pillar to ensure that growth, innovation, and job creation are not undermined by disruptions, coercion, or systemic vulnerabilities.

Economic security, however, cannot be achieved by any country acting alone. It depends on close cooperation among trusted partners. In this regard, the Philippines and Canada are well positioned to work more closely together.

While Canada and the Philippines operate in distinct strategic contexts, their economic security interests are increasingly aligned. Canada brings strengths in responsible resource development and clean-technology supply chains, and globally recognized leadership in advanced technology ecosystems. The Philippines, meanwhile, offers growing maritime capabilities, an expanding role in regional logistics, renewed mining ambitions, and extensive experience navigating complex information and digital environments.

As discussions toward a Canada-Philippines Free Trade

EVENT PROGRAM

Agreement advance, there is a timely opportunity to embed economic security considerations into bilateral cooperation. Doing so can help ensure that deeper economic ties are supported by trusted digital systems, resilient supply chains, and stronger defence-related industrial linkages.

In line with this, the Stratbase Institute and the Asia Pacific Foundation of Canada, in collaboration with the Embassy of Canada to the Philippines, are organizing a two-day event on March 12-13, 2026 (Thursday and Friday) at Makati Shangri-La, Makati City. The initiative aims to provide a platform for advancing practical cooperation on digital resilience, critical minerals and clean technology, and defence industrial collaboration—key areas where Canada–Philippines engagement can deliver tangible economic security outcomes.

The first day will feature a closed-door Track 1.5 strategic dialogue, bringing together a high-level Canadian delegation—comprising senior government officials, private sector leaders, and experts from academe and civil society—with Filipino counterparts for candid and forward-looking discussions.

The second day will feature a public event, convening senior policymakers, industry leaders, and strategic experts to explore how Canada and the Philippines can strengthen collaboration on economic security — with particular focus on advanced technology partnerships, critical mineral and clean technology development, and defence industrial cooperation. This event will bring together stakeholders from government, the private sector, academe, civil society, media, youth, and the international community.
